

Innovation, Globalization and the University

Keynote Speaker: Dr. Kiyoshi Kurokawa

Professor, National Graduate Institute for Policy Studies (GRIPS)

Chair: Janice Stein, Director, Munk Centre for International Studies

Featured Panelists:

Yu-Ling Chen, Director of the Centre for Global Engineering (CGEN), University of Toronto
Anita M. McGahan, Professor, Rotman School of Management, University of Toronto
Murray Metcalfe, Professor, Faculty of Engineering and Applied Science, University of Toronto
Joseph Wong, Associate Professor and Canada Research Chair, Political Science, University of Toronto

Tuesday, October 27, 2009

1:30 PM – 3:30 PM

Munk Centre for International Studies

1 Devonshire Place

Please register online at:

<http://webapp.mcis.utoronto.ca/EventDetails.aspx?eventid=8141>

Innovation is an inter-disciplinary and collaborative endeavor. This panel – which brings together leading scientists and scholars in their respective fields – looks to provide a forum in which thinkers about innovation can share, and perhaps even contest, their ideas about the linkages between innovation, globalization and the role of the university. The panelists have been asked to contemplate the notion of “innovation research” from the perspectives of management, the social sciences and engineering. The discussion is intended to be free-flowing.