

Fundamental studies on cellular structure development in foam injection molding process

Faculty advisor: Prof. Chul Park

The main purpose of this project is to identify mechanisms contributing in formation and development of the cellular structure in foam injection molding process (Opportunities: manufacturing engineering, materials processing, materials science, and materials characterization)

Contact: Dr. Vahid Shaayegan vahidsh@mie.utoronto.ca